WHAT IS OUR MISSION?

ICC Estonia promotes international trade and importance of Incoterms®. We work like a traffic hub arranging and directing the flows of important information between ICC head office in Paris and Estonia and forward the interests of the Estonian economic environment to wider audience at a global level.

Incoterms® is a standard set of terminology, created by the ICC, used universally, defining the key parts of freight forwarding to help traders understand one another in domestic and international trade. They are intended to reduce or remove altogether uncertainties arising from different interpretation of the rules in different countries. Incoterms® rules are accepted by governments, legal authorities, and practitioners worldwide for the interpretation of most commonly used terms in international trade.
